Americans: Do They Know What to Believe? By Andy Smith

As of November 2020 the United States leads the world in over 12 Million reported cases of Corona Virus infections. The 2020 Presidential Election is being challenged with unconstitutional actions. The U.S. economy is Bad!

The United States has no Executive Leadership at this time from the current Presidential Administration

Donald Trump is fixed on challenging his loss in the 2020 Presidential Election with failed attempts to flip lawmakers to change election rules and join his claims of election fraud and stop legitimate ballot counts.

Donald Trump is golfing and not participating in important meetings including the G20 Leadership pandemic talks.

Donald Trump has failed to keep promises to provide economic relief to U.S. citizens with stimulus monies he said he would issue after the election, clearly an attempt to get favorable votes which he clearly did not receive.

It appears some Americans do not trust or believe the medical community enough to take effective actions to slow down or stop the rate and spread of the COVID Virus

People gathered in large numbers without social distancing or wearing face coverings, especially during election rallies held by Donald Trump.

Disinformation and misinformation is so abundant that people are ignoring or refusing prudent and useful information especially with reports of agencies falsifying COVID cases to get funding.

Reports of a positive vaccine tests for the Corona Virus COVID-19 has emerged, yet even the medical community is cautious about its use that requires multiple and annual doses plus an unorthodox timeline to release a vaccine has people in doubt.

Some people are under the belief the virus is a bio-weapon and created as a means of population control to target specific parts of the population, namely people with pre-existing health conditions or elderly.

The U.S. economy joins other nations impacted by what restrictions and closures have done to businesses that were not able to adapt or survive mandated health guidelines

Some businesses want to take exception to operating safely versus asking the current White House administration for assistance to offset their potential lost of in-person business.

Ignoring global measures to limit the spread of the virus in the long run may prove to eventually cause more restrictions and closures that will hurt businesses that should have "honker down" and maintained closures that could have reduced the infection rate.

Businesses such as liquors stores remaining open during the Stay Orders was deemed more important than staying closed to help reduce risk of spreading the virus, still would have made much money doing curbside.

So why don't Americans know what to believe?

I have stated the obvious in the above listed reports and opinions, yet the following is the somewhat ignored truth. I keep hearing the used of this term "white privilege" instead of calling it what it is, "arrogance"! Arrogance that plagues this nation in such a way that it police murder and kill people, even in full view of the world (familiar to the monstrosities witnessed by the world during the Civil Rights Movement) setting off a national outcry for justice and possibly out of shame that world would join in the condemnation of how people are being treated under a leadership that cries, "Make America Great Again". Does anyone remember the Greatness? What is this greatness? I'll wait.

1% of the U.S. population controls 90% of its wealth that could be distributed fairly to eliminate most of its social-economic turmoil, however such an action would be considered communist and the ruling class was put to death at the birth of Marxism, which led to demonizing the concept that proved it does not work since tyranny became the true form of communism's strength. Speaking of tyranny, isn't that what Trump is doing by disposing of constitutional and state laws to hinder the election process and the nation's people who know it is wrong while they stand by and do NOTHING out of fear or agreement with this tyranny?

I have tried to warn others of what has obviously happened, the collapse of the world you knew. Welcome to the New World Order, which will weed out what it intends to and rebuild what it wants. Wake up! Some of you are not included in this new order, or at least not in the role you would like or expect.

I have also spent a few years stressing the importance of family bonds, even encouraging you to create family out of friends who mutually respect, support and love you. You may have to make necessary choices to love family or friends from a distance and stop enabling a bad or unhealthy relationship; or at least cut off your contribution to enabling the madness of others.

I wish the best for those who deserve better and shame on those who do not try to make things better. Help out where you can without putting yourself at risk health-wise, including mental health. Do NOT continue doing things that can put you in an economical challenge, save your money (not everyone needs a Christmas gift). Do yourself a favor by making sure whoever you come in contact is worth it and necessary. I miss hugs, hand shakes and seeing smiles. Try doing things that help even if you do not agree, even if it means wearing a mask that can help protect others. I even wear a mask more often, most of the time as required, sometimes from a lack of trust. Even if this virus is from bat dung or whatever, I believe the authorities knew and should have given the world fair warning. I also believe evil has its hands on this disease. So protect yourself and others!

This article is a bit of a ramble so take away from it what you like, however you cannot ignore any truths it shares and you can change your outcome in whatever mess your relationships, jobs, businesses or the nation has put you in. Love does conquer all, and love works best when you at least love yourself.
